

Biography

Pimphot Seelakate, Ph.D.

Lecturer at Department of Library Science, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University
Bangkok, Thailand

Pimphot Seelakate, Ph.D. is a lecturer at Department of Library Science, Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. She has been teaching courses on records management for undergraduate and post-graduate programmes at Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University which are Bachelor of Arts in Information Studies; Master of Arts Program in Data and Information Curation; Graduate Programs in Information Studies; and Bachelor of Arts in Language and Culture (BALAC). Dr. Seelakate graduated BA (Information Studies) with first class honour from Faculty of Arts, Chulalongkorn University. Her interest in archives and records management began when she was taking “archives management” course since 2009. During undergraduate study, she had opportunities to take internship positions in multiple archives e.g. the National Archives, Chulalongkorn University Archives, and Bank of Thailand Archives. In 2011, she received a scholarship from Office of Higher Education Commission (OHEC) to pursue her graduate studies in England. She received both Master and Doctoral degrees in Archives and Records Management (International) from the Department of Information Studies, University College London in United Kingdom. Dr. Seelakate’ interests include laws and standards for records and archives. She has been active involving in a number of academic and professional activities in local and international venues.